Please make sure you supply enough information so we can fulfill your request or bequest, kia ora thank you.

The Museum collection is one of the oldest in the Waikato, founded on the Gavin Gifford collection in 1935. We rely solely on donations from the public in order to develop the collection.

The Museum Collection is made up of objects that tell the stories of Te Awamutu and the wider Waipā District. Every item offered to the Museum is assessed by Collection staff against our Collection strategy and policy. This includes its significance to Waipā, its relevance to our current collection, and our ability to store and care for items in perpetuity. We cannot take any items until they have been through this process.

Many of our taonga, photographs, maps and objects have been digitised and available for viewing online! Check it out: https://collection.tamuseum.org.nz/explore

Our heritage collection includes over 17,900 items that span centuries.

The digital collection is now available for you to view.

RESEARCH AT THE MUSEUM

Caring For Our Heritage

The Museum is committed to providing access to local heritage for future generations. We use best practices of preventative conservation to ensure the best possible standard of care for all items in the collection. Some objects are very fragile, and unable to be exhibited - but may be viewed only by appointment.

The Archives Collection

The archive collection holds historic documents, newspapers, family histories and photographs related to social history within the District of Waipā. Anyone can view archives by appointment, or we can conduct research on your behalf. Please allow two weeks for a response to your inquiry.

Viewing the Collection

You are welcome to make an appointment to view objects and artefacts held in storage - for either personal or research purposes. Please fill out the attached form for further assistance. Please allow two weeks for a response to your inquiry.
